

Legality ≠ Morality

- 1) Do you have the moral right to rule or dominate another individual against their will?
 - 2) Does anyone have the moral right to rule or dominate you, if you don't want them to rule or dominate you?
 - 3) Does anyone have a legitimately higher claim over your life and property than you?
 - 4) Do you have a legitimately higher claim over the life and property of another?
 - 5) Do you have a legitimate right to steal your neighbors stuff?
 - 6) Does anyone have the legitimate right to steal your stuff?
 - 7) If you don't have the right to steal from or harm another person, can you confer that right (that you don't have) onto another person or group?
- 1) Do you think two people have a right to trade with each other independent of any third-party if they want to?
 - 2) Can you limit slavery or violence if it's seen by everyone as legitimate?
 - 3) If stealing 100% of the product of someone's labor is slavery, at what percentage is it not slavery?

“To make a contented slave, you must make a thoughtless one. It is necessary to darken his moral and mental vision, and, as far as possible, to annihilate his power of reason. He must be able to detect no inconsistencies in slavery. The man that takes his earnings, must be able to convince him that he has a perfect right to do so. It must not depend upon mere force; the slave must know no Higher Law than his master's will. The whole relationship must not only demonstrate, to his mind, its necessity, but its absolute rightfulness.”

~ Frederick Douglass ~
Former Slave, Abolitionist

The Law Of Freedom
As Morality Increases,

As Morality Declines,
Freedom Declines.

“Educate and inform the whole mass of the people. They are the only sure reliance for the preservation of our liberty.”

Can We Prevent Another World War 2?

Democide is the TOP source of unnatural death!

Democide is known as “death by government.” 133 million deaths pre-20th century and 262 million deaths in the 20th century for a total of 395 million. This does not include the combatants killed in the 350+ wars between governments since 1800 or the 40+ million international and civil war combatant death in the 20th century. The number of people killed by their own governments in the twentieth century was more than four and a half times greater than the number killed by nongovernmental murderers, which raises the question of whether government should be counted more as a source of security or as a source of danger.

Politics Will Never DEFINE Freedom Or Rights...

A Right: Any Action Which Does Not Cause Harm Or Steal This Is Morality. No Victim, No Crime!
Rights, Freedom, Life Are Property
You have the Right to take any action which does not cause harm (violates other's Rights). There is no such thing as the delegation of a Wrong, as Rights come from Nature.

“The morality of the act I dispose of as follows: I am myself; you are yourself; we are two distinct persons, equal persons. What you are, I am. You are a man, and so am I. God created both, and made us separate beings. I am not by nature bond to you, or you to me. Nature does not make your existence depend upon me, or mine to depend upon yours. I cannot walk upon your legs, or you upon mine. I cannot breathe for you, or you for me; I must breathe for myself, and you for yourself. We are distinct persons, and are each equally provided with faculties necessary to our individual existence. In leaving you, I took nothing but what belonged to me, and in no way lessened your means for obtaining an honest living. Your faculties remained yours, and mine became useful to their rightful owner. I therefore see no wrong in any part of the transaction.”

- Frederick Douglass ~

1) Is there any means by which any number of individuals can delegate to someone else the moral right to do something which none of the individuals have the moral right to do themselves?

2) Do those who wield political power (presidents, legislators, etc.) have the moral right to do things which other people do not have the moral right to do? If so, from whom and how did they acquire such a right?

3) Is there any process (e.g., constitutions, elections, legislation) by which human beings can transform an immoral act into a moral act (without changing the act itself)?

4) When law-makers and law-enforcers use coercion and force in the name of law and government, do they bear the same responsibility for their actions that anyone else would who did the same thing on his own?

5) When there is a conflict between an individual's own moral conscience, and the commands of a political authority, is the individual morally obligated to do what he personally views as wrong in order to “obey the law”?
